Monday afternoon at her elegant home on Belleville street, Mrs. M. E. Croft entertained from 3 to 5 o'clock in honor of Miss Blue of St. Louis. A Kings and Queens contest was engaged in a delicious two course luncheon was served to the guests in the parlors, consisting of salad, coffee, pickles and pressed fig pudding. Mrs. Croft was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Mrs. W. V. Haynes and Miss Ellis Gray, the latter of whom favored the guests with a vocal solo, which was well rendered and much appreciated. Besides the guests of honor those bidden were: Miss Lizzie James, Mesdames Orme, Blue, Gray, Woods, Yandell, Dixon, Crider, Jenkins, Dupuy, Rochester and Mrs. Sayre of Oklahoma.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments of the season was given given by Mrs. J. W. Blue Thursday afternoon in honor of her guest, Miss Nonie Blue, who is being extensively entertained during her visit in our city.

After the guests arrived to relieve the formality and start conversation, a slip of paper was given each with the request to perform the given "stunt." The quick responses and rich repartees were much enjoyed by all. Some requests were to recite a poem, relate a vivid dream tell an anecdote, description of a hero, yawning, etc.

There was given a contest to guess familiar proverbs from illustrations. The refreshments consisted of peach salad, nuts and ham sandwich, pickles, coffee and candy.

The guests present were: Misses Blue and James, Mesdames Sayre from Ardmore, Okla., Dupuy, W. R. Cruce from Crayne, Orme, Deboe; Flanary, Tucker, J. G. Rochester, C. S. Nunn, N. Rochester, Gray, Jenkins, Haynes, Crider, Yandell Croft, Mather and Woods.

Mrs. J. I. Clement entertained Wednesday afternoon Jan. 11th in honor of Miss Nonie Blue and invited many childhood friends of her guest of honor to meet her and talk over the happy days of youth. The Clement home on south Main is an ideal one for receiving a large number of visitors, having reception hall and folding doors making it possible to have several rooms in one, but the capacity of the house was taken on this occasion when all of those bidden were ushered in. Many pleasant reminiscences were recalled and old friendships renewed.

Refreshments of creamed oysters on toast, coffee, celery hearts and confections were served by Mrs. Clement's charming daughter, Miss Marian, assisted by Mrs. Dupuy. Beside the guest of honor those who enjoyed Mrs. Clement's hospitality were Mesdames Deboe, Hayward, Stone, Croft, Woods, Wilson, Yandell, Jenkins, Dixon, Blue, Olive, Finley, Donakey, Sayre of Admore, Dorr, Cameron, Gray, Nunn, Flanary and Miss Lizzie James. The hours were from 3 to 5 and the guests departed with loud praises of the hostess, her gracious manner and her lovely home, each of which added to the pleasure of the occasion.

LETTER FROM ED MASSEY

Tie Sideing, Wyo. Jan. 5th., '11
Mr. S. M. Jenkins,

Rememberance friend, find enclosed money order for one dollar and fifty cents for which please send to my address at Tie Sideing, Wyo., and allow me space enough in your admirable paper to entertain my relatives and friends in writing a few words to them as I can't write to them personally considering my situation. Just a few words to my friends of old Kentucky and relations also. I felt that you perhaps would forget me. I am pretty good at present, this is a jolly good state and lot of business is done here in regards to the stockmen throughout Wyoming.

I am in the mountains. I left Kentucky in April, 1909, came to Eaton, Cal., and found employment on a Palado ranch where I was located thirteen months and then I came to the Rocky Mountains and hauled freight five months and now I have charge of the Mountain ranch. It is one of the most ornamental resorts in summer I ever was at. The elevation is 9687 feet above sea level and it would please me the most in the world if some of these jolly old boys of old Crittenden county to spend one summer and winter in the wildest part of Wyoming. We certainly do have some frightful snow storms, in December we were snowed in and run short on grub and of course I had to ride the roads to see if we couldn't get to town which is twenty miles away, with a spring wagon. So in saddling up old Jim my old saddle horse who is acquainted with the mountains and snow, and so by going through jack-pines and timber I arrived at town about four p. m. and found no one could get through the snow only by riding, the snow was from two to nine feet deep and if you can decide about how dangerous it was to come in contact with nine feet of Wyoming snow. So the next morning I saddled old Jimmie for a new route on Green mountain a road I had never been over before, no trail was broken and it was about fifteen miles out of the way but it was the only system to work on, the sun was warm with no clouds at all and about one o'clock a blizzard struck me, it was snowing so hard I could see my horses head and the gale from the Gulf of Mexico was strong and old Jim couldn't hold him self to the wind and started with the storm and so did I. I rode until nine o'clock that night and was about frozen and myself and horse were almost ready to croak, I was walking and leading him as he had given out, he would lie down and nicker at me as if he was going to die, finally he would pull out of the snow and as we were going down a mountain stream along the old Sandy canyon, shivering with cold, all at once old Jim threw his head in the heavy sand, and snorted trying to pull me down the canyon, I was thinking of meeting some wild beasts and attempted to pull one of my old forty-five guns but was so cold I could not pull it out of the holster. I stopped to investigate and it came in my mind that old Jimmie was a wise old mountain boy and that he was lost and knew it, so I declined to heed to his desire in turning down the canyon but in a moment decided to climb in my saddle and look down the canyon and when I did so discovered a light about three hundred yards down and I felt sunshine at once, when I reached the ranch I knew where I was at, it was old man Johnsons ranch whom I knew well, I had ridden about one hundred miles that day and was quite a ways from home, we had supper and I was back in a short while. It is hard to fight a storm out here, he told me I was nery and that often some froze or croaked on the same route. So Mr Editor thanking you very much for sparing me space to publish these few words and so a good word to all the boys and a good kiss for all the girls is my request and a friendly goodbye to the Editor and goodbye to old Kentucky, goodbye.

Ed Massey.

Card of Thanks.

We would through your paper, be pleased to return our sincere thanks to our kind friends who rendered us such valuable service during the last illness of our dear relative.

ENOCH AND ROBT. HEATH.

Card of Thanks.

Tribune, Ky., Jan. 9th, 1911.

Mr. S. M. Jenkins, I want to show my appreciation to my neighbors for their kindness to me while I was afflicted with rheumatism.

Lewis Horning, Hughey York, John Hill, Andy Henley, Joe Lemon, John Butler and H. C. Hill, came with four horses and wagon, cut and hauled wood filled up the porch and wood shed until there was no more room.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. Thanks to Miss Cordie Lemon for helping wife get dinner.

Letter From Kansas.

Welsford, Kan., Jan. 3, 1911.

Dear Mr. Jenkins enclosed you will find three dollars, one for which please send me the old Record-Press. I do not want to miss a number as it is like getting a letter from my dear old Kentucky home. We are having some very cold weather at present, and very dry. Wheat looks very poor, haven't had but one rain since it was sown. Great many have sown over the second time.

Thanking you for all past favors, I remain as ever your friend.

The Heath Family.

Weston, Ky., Jan. 9th, 1911.

This narrative may be of some interest to some in regard to the Heath family. At the beginning of the year, 1910, there were five of the old family living, since which time three of the five have passed over the river, two brothers and one sister. The oldest of the three, Harrison, 93; John R. 85; Nancy 82; leaving Robert who is 95 and Enoch 79, the average of the two survivors 87 years.

We Did Not Print Any Paper

Christmas Week.

Atwood, Kansas,
Mr. Marshal Jenkins(Editor)
Dear Sir:--

I failed to receive the grand old Crittenden Record-Press of December 29th 1910. Will you please send me that issue and oblige me I am interested in old Kentucky and want all the news, when I miss a paper I don't know what is going on in Kentucky, and in the Press I get all the neighborhood news, as well as lots of outside news. Wishing you a happy and prosperous New year I will close,

Yours truly

FREDONIA

Misses Maggie Moore and Ethel Hard, of Marion, visited Mrs. Fannie Koon Saturday and Sunday.

S. C. Bennett and wife were in Evansville, Ind., several days last week to consult a specialist in regard to Mr. Bennett's health.

A. S. Threlkeld has sold his blacksmith shop, lot and tools to Dr. J. N. Bailey.

The young people of the vicinity, were given a tacky party at the home of Seth Wiggington last week. Many queer costumes were seen, and a pleasant time was had by those present--about seventy-five in all.

Miss Annie Cash, of Marion, spent Sunday here.

A. Boaz visited relatives in Livingston county last week.

We pay highest cash prices for country produce--paid 10 cts cash for hens last week. Bought 1300 lbs. in one day and are still paying 10 cts. cash for hens. See us before you sell. Bennett & Son.

Sam Howerton and family spent last week with relatives near Russellville.

Rev. H. Clay Smith lectured at the Presbyterian church here Sunday on the subject of "temperance." He is a fine speaker and the large crowd was well pleased with his sermon.

Mrs. Herbert Wolfe and family returned home Friday from a visit to relatives at Pinkneyville.

Dr. Wolfe is very busy doing dental work at Salem and other points in Livingston county.

The eighteen-year-old daughter of John Gray, who lives near town, was thrown from a horse Sunday and broke her ankle.

M. N. Wilkey and his bonny bride are at home to their many friends. We are glad to have them with us.

James And The C ommittee.

The Courier Journal of Monday Jan. 14th., 1911 in commenting on Congressman James' letter to the state committee in which he plead that the people be allowed to select their nominee for U. S. senator in the primary at the same time and in the same manner which the other candidates are nominated. has this to say.

Ollie James puts it pointedly and forcibly to the State Committee. To an outsider he certainly seems to have the logic of the issue on his side.

The Courier Journal, not accustomed to intrude in the details of party administration, and caring not a rap what the methods of selecting party nominees may be, so that it be fair and representative of the masses of the party, has attempted to take no part in the question of a convention or primary this year. But when the committee, determining on a convention in preference to a primary for gubernatorial candidates, the Courier-Journal commented on what appeared to be an inexpedient inconsistency. It may not have been inexpedient. The Courier-Journal is not in the secrets of the committee. It does not pretend to know the reasons which governed the committee in this course. They may be good and satisfactory reasons. But if they are the public, like the Courier-Journal, does not know it. The party at large does not know it. Cannot the committee enlighten us all? Mr. James seems to make a good case. If the committee, with a word or two of explanation, can make a better, it would seem to be to the interest of everybody concerned that it should do so.

The Courier Journal offers it an open mind and open columns.
